Thurston County Man Breaks World Record on National Television

Joel Strasser Appeared on 'Live with Kelly and Ryan' on Sept. 21

By Daniel Warn

dan@yelmonline.com

People with long beards like Joel Strasser's might be used to getting food stuck in their tangle, but Strasser puts objects there on purpose.

He was featured on "Live with Kelly and Ryan" on Tuesday, Sept. 21 as he beat his own Guinness World Record for the most pencils put in one's beard at one time while live on national television.

By the time the credits rolled, he had increased his record to 456 pencils from 450.

"It was incredible," Strasser said of his time on the show. "They reached out to me in advance to see if I would go break the record for most pencils in a beard. ... I didn't want to break that record, because it's the hardest one. I thought there was a good chance I would go on the show and not be able to break my own record. It would still be fun, but it wouldn't be awesome if I went on and I didn't break my own record."

So he tried to talk the showrunners into letting him break a different record, or have Guinness create a new record for him to set.

"I was trying to work that angle, but they were like, 'No, we really want you to do the pencils.' ... So that's what I went and did," Strasser said.

The reason he was hesitant is because the amount of time needed to put that many pencils in his beard can be unpredictable.

"I practiced it a number of times and it always takes a different amount of time to get that many pencils (in my beard). I don't know why," he said. "I can do it in under an hour, or I can do it in an hour and a half, or anything in between. It just depends for some reason.

This posed a challenge for the "Live" showrunners, but Strasser dutifully showed up to expose his talent to the nation.

"We really tried to get the plan down just right," Strasser said. "It was pretty stressful. I was trying to remain calm and everything, but it was a little stressful trying to do it and do it within the timeframe. But the producers were awesome. They were juggling and scrambling behind the scenes."

Kelly Ripa and Ryan Seacrest were also interviewing a celebrity and a musical guest, and the producers had to move the musician around in the lineup of the show to best accommodate when Strasser might be finished with the record, he said.

"It all worked out awesome," Strasser said.

During the show, Seacrest reportedly was intrigued with Strasser's process.

"Ryan Seacrest was hilarious," Strasser said. "He kept cracking jokes. ... He kept coming over in the commercials, and he really wanted to touch my pencil-beard while I was doing it. Kelly was like, 'Stop. Get away from him. You're going to mess him up.'

Joel Strasser holds 10 world records for placing items in his beard.

Joel Strasser holds the world record for the amount of plastic straws one can place in their beard.

"And then at the very end, when I finally broke the record, he was like, 'Can I touch it now?' And I was like, 'Yeah, grab on. Touch away.' And he was feeling the beard full of pencils. He loved it."

Strasser gave Ripa and Seacrest a pencil from the beard when all was said and done.

In all, Strasser holds 10 Guinness

World Records for putting objects in his beard.

He has put 3,500 toothpicks, 312 plastic straws, 534 paper straws, 607 golf tees, 520 chopsticks, 542 beard ornaments, 121 forks, 359 clothespins and 456 pencils in his beard and has also been able to put 62 toothpicks in his bread in one minute.

His record-breaking pursuits began at work, where he teaches people at State Farm Insurance how to make auto claims for cli-

"I would walk around the classroom and put things in my beard just to see who was paying attention, like in the afternoons if I was losing people. That's how it kind of started. And then one of the learners challenged me and was like, 'How many pencils can you fit in your beard," he said.

Once he tried it out, he got the bug and the first record he broke was the one for most toothpicks in a beard at one time.

Recently, Strasser went headto-head with Dean Banowetz, "The Hollywood Hair Guy," to see who could fit more bobby pins in their beard for a fundraiser in Los Angeles, which raised money for two families who had lost a parent to cancer.

Strasser lost the contest, but the record was broken by his opponent.

People can still donate to the fundraiser at www.deanbanowetz.com/donate and the video of the contest can be viewed online at www.youtube. com/watch?v=xq9MdByKSlo. "When we hit our fundraising goal, (Banowetz) is going to shave my beard off," Strasser said.

Folks can keep up with Strasser's antics on YouTube at www. youtube.com/joelnert and at the Instagram handle @joelnert.

DEAR ABBY: My son and his wife have been living with us for two and a half years so they can save for a house. Recently, my best friend told me that a mutual acquaintance spotted a picture of my son and his wife on a swinger website. At first I discounted it. Then I started noticing they were going out every Friday and Saturday night. My daughter-in-law was usually dressed provocatively, and they wouldn't get home until around 5 or 5:30 a.m. My husband and I are both Christians. Neither of us feel comfortable about the situation. What do you recommend we do? --INCREDULOUS IN TEXAS

DEAR INCREDULOUS: Your son and his wife are adults. You can't force them to live according to your religious beliefs. But neither do you have to give tacit consent and foster their living a life you do not approve of by turning a blind eye. Check the website for yourself. If what you heard is the gospel, it may be time your adult children made other living arrangements.

DEAR ABBY: My friend "Lois" is in her 70s. She met a man on a dating site several years ago. I warned her he was a romance scammer, but she kept talking to him. She even sent him a few hundred dollars. Since then, she talks to more than one stranger who I'm pretty sure are scammers as well.

Lois lives on Social Security, but sometimes comes into

small windfalls from a stimulus

or the sale of items. I suspect she's sending them money, too. She has been in a relationship with a man she lives with for several years. When I asked her how she would like it if he were doing the same thing, Lois told me she would stop. Now I see she is friends with three or four more strange men on Facebook! I don't know them, but they sometimes "like" things I post. (I will have to change my settings so that strangers can't see my posts.)

What's wrong with her? Does she like to pretend she is rich? They keep sending friend requests to me and my sister. Of course, we don't accept them. We have warned Lois about this, yet she continues to do the same thing. What can I do? -- SEEING CLEARLY IN GEORGIA

DEAR SEEING CLEARLY:

Lois is an adult. You have warned her that what she's doing is a mistake. It may be a waste of her money, but you can't control her behavior, so accept that fact and live your own life accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: Sometimes when my husband, "Tom," drinks he becomes volatile. A month ago, after being out drinking, he came home very late. I made a joke that upset him and he started yelling and calling me names. I have learned that when Tom gets like that, it's best to just agree with him.

On that occasion, it didn't work, and he began breaking things. Our teenage son "Eric" was so scared he called the police. When the police arrived they told my husband who had placed the call and interviewed each of us separately. After they left, Tom called Eric ugly names, told him he was done with him and hasn't spoken to him since. If they are in the same room, my husband won't look at him or talk to him.

I don't know how to fix this. I worry about how this will affect Eric. He tries to avoid his dad now and goes to his room when he hears his dad come home. -- BAD BEHAVIOR IN TEXAS

DEAR BAD BEHAVIOR:

Your husband may blame his abusive outbursts on his drinking, but as you can see, he's well aware of what he did after he sobers up. Eric was right to call the police because, after "breaking things," his father could have gone after you.

This unfortunate situation will not improve until Tom faces the fact that he's a problem drinker, swears off the sauce and gets help. By not insisting upon it, you have cast yourself in the role of his enabler. For your sake and Eric's, draw the line. (The healthiest person in your household appears to be your son.)

Talk to Eric. Let him know he did nothing wrong. There are programs for families of alcoholics that can be accessed by visiting al-anon. org/info. Attending Al-Anon meetings would be beneficial for you and Eric, regardless of what your husband decides about drying out.

Streamer picks up fifth season of 'SEAL Team'

By Rachel Jones

TV Media

Still spinning from the loss of one of their own, television's favorite SEALs are jumping into their next mission when "SEAL Team" returns for an epic Season 5 on Sunday, Oct. 10, on CBS before moving exclusively to Paramount+.

"SEAL Team," created by Benjamin Cavell ("The Stand") and produced by CBS Studios, is a TV military drama series that premiered on Sept. 27, 2017. It follows an elite unit of United States Navy SEALs led by David Boreanaz ("Angel") as Master Chief Special Warfare Operator Jason Hayes. Hayes' Bravo team also includes Clay Spenser (Max Thieriot, "Point Break," 2015), a second-generation Navy SEAL in training, and Amanda "Mandy" Ellis (Jessica Paré, "Atypical"), Bravo's CIA liaison.

Also returning for Season 5 is Chief Warrant Officer 2 Raymond "Ray" Perry (Neil Brown Jr., "Bayou Sales," 2019), the longest-tenured SEAL and best friend to the team captain, and Special Warfare Operator First Class Sonny Quinn (A. J. Buckley, "Pure"), a loyal but unpredictable SEAL who would just about always choose a firefight over a leadership position.

And viewers can't forget about Lieutenant Junior Grade Lisa Davis (Toni Trucks, "Corporate"), the DEVGRU Intelligence Officer assigned to Bravo.

In the season's opening episode, the team is stunned to discover that the "training" it's currently undergoing is actually a front for an ongoing underground mission that seeks to extract a weapons expert from one of the deadliest corners of the globe.

Though not exactly thrilling news to the team, especially after a particularly difficult fourth season, the SEALs are up for whatever mission the United States of America asks.

The Season 4 finale was catastrophic, to say the least, leaving its audience and characters in a rather precarious situation. The Bravo team lost its comrade Scott Carter, aka Full Metal (Scott Foxx, "Only the Brave," 2017), to injuries after he shielded his team from a shoulder-fired missile. And as if that loss weren't enough to grapple with, a slew of personal problems surfaced for various members of the SEAL team.

Jason finally convinced Ray to get therapy, and after months of fighting,

David Boreanaz in "SEAL Team"

Ray unloaded all of his trauma on his wife, Naima (Parisa Fakhri, "Castle"). Their relationship had become a dark cloud looming over the reunion between Clay and Stella (Alona Tal, "Burn Notice"), with Clay seeing Ray and Naima's story as a kind of sinister foreshadowing for their own future.

Still, the show knows that for every great tragedy, there needs to be some levity, so why not a wedding? Clay popped the question to Stella and they ended up getting married at city hall.

Sonny and Lisa also had their own decisions to make about the future — both together and apart — at the end of Season 4, as Sonny searched for ways to stay closer to his newborn baby girl. And Jason's alleged "headache" at Clay and Stella's wedding reception raises some red flags for PTSD in a residual reaction to last season's events.

The characters' problems and the danger they face seem all too real on occasion, and for good reason. Though the show is not based on a true story, it is inspired by Navy veteran SEALs and common issues veterans face on missions and when they return home. This, in part, is the reason COVID-19 will be taking a back seat to the story writers wish to tell.

Like most other shows in the past couple of years, "SEAL Team" had to suspend production in early 2020 to deal with COVID-19, putting at least two of its Season 3 episodes on the backburner. And while they've been back filming, everyone involved is now required to follow a list of safety protocols, including mandatory quarantining and regular testing. While writers have played with the idea of incorporating the pandemic into the storyline, "SEAL Team" is one show that won't acknowledge it in its plot.

Just about the only role the coronavirus will play in the military drama will be to impact the number of guest actors on the show, due to quarantine and travel requirements. In fact, showrunner Spencer Hudnut ("Unforgettable") has vowed to exclude it 100% from the show, saying he believes that viewers need "an escape" (nearly all TV series have included it, from "Grey's Anatomy" to "NCIS").

Hudnut believes "SEALTeam" is already, as it is, all about people risking their lives on the front lines, continuing, "We talked about it, and because we have to finish what we started, to all of [a] sudden be in a pandemic world felt wrong."

Critically speaking, "SEAL Team" has been well received, and CBS announced the show's renewal back in May 2021. The season premiere is one of four episodes to be shown on the network, this time on Sundays right after "The Equalizer" and "NCIS: LA." That said, fans should expect this time-slot to move around a bit due to Sunday Night Football.

Also, as of the fourth episode, "SEAL Team" will be moving exclusively to Paramount+, where it will still air weekly as it once did on CBS.

Don't forget to mark this next mission on your calendar! "SEAL Team" premieres Sunday, Oct. 10, on CBS before moving to Paramount+.

Ryan McCartan, Laverne Cox and Victoria Justice in "The Rocky Horror Picture Show: Let's Do the Time Warp Again"

By Dana Simpson

"The Rocky Horror Picture Show: Let's Do the Time Warp Again"

"It's just a jump to the left, and then a step to the right" when the 2016 film "The Rocky Horror Picture Show: Let's Do the Time Warp Again" comes to Hulu on Sunday, Oct. 3. An incredibly popular cult favorite since its 1975 release, "The Rocky Horror Picture Show" takes on a new form in this four-decades-later remake from director Kenny Ortega ("This Is It," 2009). Campy and delightful in all the right ways, this modern take on the old, offbeat classic stars none other than Laverne Cox ("Orange Is the New Black") as the iconic, legendary and oh-so-stylish Dr. Frank-N-Furter (originally played by Tim Curry from 1990's "It"). The film tells the story of straight-laced, conservative couple Brad (Ryan McCartan, "Liv and Maddie: Cali Style") and Janet (Victoria Justice, "Bigger," 2018) who stumble upon a castle in the middle of nowhere while they are seeking shelter from a raging storm. Little do they know, the castle belongs to Dr. Frank-N-Furter, a sassy, trans, alien, mad-scientist diva who has been spending their life and money trying to create the perfect buff bodybuilder named Rocky (Staz Nair, "Game of Thrones"). Complete with song, dance and lots of ridiculous twists and turns, this film remake is based on the original screenplay by Jim Sharman and Richard O'Brien (both also of "Shock Treatment," 1981). Starring the new Queen's Adam Lambert ("We the People") as Eddie, Christina Milian ("Be Cool," 2005) as Magenta, Annaleigh Ashford ("B Positive") as Columbia, Reeve Carney ("Penny Dreadful") as Riff Raff and Ivy Levin ("Drop Dead Gorgeous," 2010) as The Usherette, "The Rocky Horror Picture Show: Let's Do the Time Warp Again" also sees the return of Curry himself, this time as The Criminologist - An Expert.

"Finding Your Feet" (2017)

Get a reminder on the importance of family when the 2017 comedy "Finding Your Feet" lands on Hulu Sunday, Oct. 3. Early into her senior years and proud of the upper-crusty life she and her new-knighted lawyer husband, Mike (John Sessions, "The Merchant of Venice," 2004) have created for themselves, Sandra (Imelda Staunton, "Harry Potter and the Order of the Phoenix," 2007) is about to retire and settle into a morethan-comfortable life of luxury in her English town. However, on the eve of her retirement, Mike asks for a divorce and Sandra learns that Mike has been having an affair with her best friend, Pamela (Josie Lawrence, "EastEnders"). Unable to turn to her once-best friend for comfort, Sandra pays a visit to her older sister, Bif (Celia Imrie, "The Best Exotic Marigold Hotel," 2011), from whom she has been estranged for more than a decade due to their irreconcilable differences. While Sandra believes Bif takes nothing seriously, Bif is disappointed in her little sister for settling into a posh life with Mike and losing the joie de vivre that once made her so empowered. Now back together and forced into forming a new relationship, Sandra hoped to find her feet again alongside the sister she never quite came to understand. Directed by Richard Loncraine ("Wimbledon," 2004), "Finding Your Feet" also stars Timothy Spall ("Mr. Turner," 2014), Joanna Lumley ("Absolutely Fabulous"), David Hayman ("The Boy in the Striped Pajamas," 2008) and Phoebe Nicholls ("The Elephant Man," 1980).

Celia Imrie and Imelda Staunton in "Finding Your Feet"

"Castle" - The complete series

Follow along throughout all eight seasons of "Castle" as fiction becomes fact. The beloved procedural-comedy series joins the Hulu roster on Sunday, Oct. 6. Made famous for his thrilling paperback mystery novels, author Richard Castle (Nathan Fillion, "The Rookie") is given permission to join the NYPD as a consultant following a string of murders inspired by those in his novels. Despite his limited contract and often-annoying presence, it becomes clear to everyone on the force that Castle and his NYPD partner, Det. Kate Beckett (Stana Katic, "The Spirit," 2008), make a productive — if not hilarious — team. Extending his stay with the police, Castle becomes an asset to the Big Apple when time and time again he helps Beckett solve difficult homicide cases. Created by "The Equalizer" and "Take Two's" Andrew W. Marlowe, "Castle" also stars Susan Sullivan ("Falcon Crest"), Jon Huertas ("This Is Us"), Seamus Dever ("Hollywoodland," 2006), Molly C. Quinn ("Doctor Sleep," 2019) and Tamala Jones ("Rebel") across each of its 173 episodes.

"Welcome to Blumhouse: Madres" (2021)

Prime's original horror anthology film series "Welcome to the Blumhouse" returns Friday, Oct. 8, with "Madres." Set in the 1970s, "Madres" follows a young Mexican-American couple, Beto (Tenoch Huerta, "Narcos: Mexico") and Diana (Ariana Guerra, "Helstrom"), who are pregnant with their first child. The couple moves to a small migrant farming community in California, but as Diana's due date looms closer, she begins experiencing strange symptoms accompanied by terrifying visions. Together, Beto and Diana work together to discover if these occurrences are the result of a legendary curse or something more sinister. One of the two latest stories in the anthology series, "Madres" is directed by Ryan Zaragoza ("All American") and written by Mario Miscione ("The Vault") and Marcella Ochoa ("Discarnate," 2018). The film's cast is rounded out by Elpidia Carrillo ("Predator," 1987), Kerry Cahill ("The Walking Dead"), Jennifer Patino ("Jumanji: The Next Level," 2019), Britton Webb ("Blood Country," 2017), Ashleigh Lewis ("Bastard's Crossing," 2021), Evelyn Gonzalez ("The Conners") and René Mena ("Bright," 2017).

"Welcome to Blumhouse: The Manor" (2021)

Complete your night of binge-worthy horror with Prime's second "Welcome to the Blumhouse" feature film this week when "The Manor" premieres Friday, Oct. 8, on the platform. Judith Albright (Barbara Hershey, "Black Swan," 2010) has had to move into a nursing home after suffering a stroke. While settling into her new abode — the facility is set in a sprawling and historic manor — it isn't long before she begins to suspect that something supernatural is prey-ing on the residents. As increasingly disturbing occurrences and deaths begin happening all around her, no one is willing to believe her story, and Judith sees no other option but to escape the manor or fall victim to the evil living in its walls. Directed and written by Axelle Carolyn ("Tales of Halloween," 2015), the film also stars Bruce Davison ("X-Men," 2000), Stacey Travis ("Easy A," 2010), Ciera Payton ("The Oval"), Jill Larson ("All My Children"), Ashley Platz ("GLOW"), Fran Bennett ("The Book of Daniel"), Mark Steger ("Stranger Things"), Nicholas Alexander ("Good

"Jennifer's Body" (2009)

Take a stroll through the hallowed (haunted) halls of high school with "Jennifer's Body," now available to stream on Prime. Despite harsh criticism upon its release in 2009, this Megan Fox ("Transformers," 2007) horror-comedy has become somewhat of a cult classic in recent years due to its still-relevant commentary on teenage life and the objectification of the female form. When popular, resident "hot girl" and cheerleader Jennifer (Fox) and her best friend, the much nerdier and aptly named Needy (Amanda Seyfried, "Mamma Mia!," 2008), attend a small-but-packed concert at a local bar, the night starts off great. Used to being the center of attention and getting all the boys at school to fall at her feet, Jennifer is confident when talking to the musicians looking for their big break in show business, led by Nikolai Wolf (Adam Brody, "The O.C."). But as the band, who will do anything to get famous, begins to see Jennifer as a target for their virginal sacrifice, the concert and Jennifer's life both take on a disastrous form. Unaware that Jennifer is not a virgin, the sacrifice goes awry and Jennifer becomes possessed with something even more evil than damning beauty and popularity. As she comes to grips with her new self, Jennifer realizes that there may be some deliciously monstrous acts she'd like to check off her list. Now, it's up to timid, caring Needy to stop Jennifer in her tracks before any more damage can come to the young men in their town. Written by horror fan and teen-theme superstar Diablo Cody ("Juno," 2007), "Jennifer's Body" was directed by Karyn Kusama ("The Invitation," 2015). Amy Sedaris ("Elf," 2003), Chris Pratt ("Jurassic World," 2015), J.K. Simmons ("Whiplash," 2014), Johnny Simmons ("The Perks of Being a Wallflower," 2012) and Juan Riedinger ("Narcos") also star.

"On My Block" - Season 4

The teens return in the fourth and final season release of "On my Block," airing Monday, Oct. 4, on Netflix. Making their way through high school, four teens in the Los Angeles neighborhood of Freeridge find their lifelong relationship tested as they grow up together. Season 3 ended on a two-year time jump, with Monse (Sierra Capri, "American Skin," 2019), Cesar (Diego Tinoco, "Teen Wolf"), Ruby (Jason Genao, "Logan," 2017) and Jamal (Brett Gray, "When They See Us") finding more comfort in young adulthood. Amid heartwrenching storylines and the forging of new identities, the friends will still do whatever it takes to stay together. This coming-of-age drama comes from creators Eddie Gonzalez and Jeremy Haft (both of "All Eyez on Me," 2017) and Lauren Lungerich ("Awkward."). Jessica Marie Garcia ("How to Get Away With Murder") and Julio Macias ("Selena: The Series") also star in the series.

"There's Someone Inside Your House" (2021)

Lock your doors and shutter your windows for this one: the new slasher film "There's Someone Inside Your House" lands on Netflix Wednesday, Oct. 6. Based on the 2017 novel of the same name by Stephanie Perkins, this terrifying tale is brought to life by producers and masters of creep, James Wan ("The Conjuring," 2013) and Shawn Levy ("Stranger Things"). Osborne High School's graduating class is being targeted by a masked assailant intent on exposing his victims' dark secrets after he kills them. With everyone in the school becoming increasingly desperate and time running out, school newcomer Makani (Sydney Park, "The Walking")

Dead") and her outsider friends are the only ones with a chance to stop it all. Featuring a screenplay by Henry Gayden ("Shazam!" 2019), the film is directed by Patrick Brice ("Creep," 2014). Sarah Dugdale ("Virgin River"), Kayla Heller ("Superman and Lois"), Théodore Pellerin ("Underground," 2020), Burkely Duffield ("Beyond"), Emilija Baranac ("To All the Boys I've Loved Before," 2018) and Markian Tarasiuk ("Status Upstate," 2017) also star.

"Pokémon the Movie: Secrets of the Jungle" (2021)

Everyone's favorite pocket monsters return with an all-new animated film Friday, Oct. 8, as "Pokémon the Movie: Secrets of the Jungle" debuts on Netflix. Koko (Moka Kamishiraishi, "Miraï," 2018) was only a baby when the Pokémon Zarude (Kankuro Nakamura, "Idaten") discovered him in the Forest of Okoya. Adopted by the forest-dwelling Zarude, Koko is 10 years old before he meets another human — who just so happens to be Ash Ketchum (Sarah Natochenny, "Pokémon") with his Pokémon pal, Pikachu (Ikue Ôtani, "Pokémon"). While Ash and Pikachu help Koko understand and adapt to humans, they end up on a journey to uncover Koko's mysterious past and her connection to a strange team of scientists, all while exploring the extraordinary new bond that Koko has formed between Pokémon and humans. "Family Business" - Season 3

Netflix is keeping it all in the family when Season 3 of "Family Business" premieres Friday, Oct. 8, on the platform. In the first season of the show, failed entrepreneur Joseph (Jonathan Cohen, "Budapest," 2018) develops a new plan to transform his family's butcher business. With the coming legalization of marijuana in France, Joseph is determined to have his family run the first legal pot coffee shop in the country. While his family rushes to make the new business work and Joseph butts heads with his father (Gérard Darmon, "The Good Thief," 2002), their frantic and funny adventures continue in the show's third season. Directed and written by Igor Gotesman ("Casting(s)"), the series also stars Julia Piaton ("The Things we Say, the Things We Do," 2020), Liliane Rovère ("The Grocer's Son," 2007), Olivier Rosemberg ("99 francs," 2007), Ali Marhyar ("As Above, So Below," 2014), Louise Coldefy ("Love at First Child," 2015) and Tamar Baruch ("To the Wonder," 2012).

hollywood Q&A

Q: I saw that "The Rules of Attraction" was based on a book. Did any of the writer's other books get produced?

A:As a matter of fact, 2002's grimly humorous film "The Rules of Attraction" may be one of Bret Easton Ellis's lesser-known film adaptations. If you liked it, you'd probably love the others.

Ellis has a unique voice and tackles similar themes in all of his books: the emptiness of materialism and the isolation and disappointment that come from an obsession with beauty and youth. Though not uncommon themes to tackle in film, Ellis's approach is to take them to depressive or violent extremes — to make his point by exaggerating it, often to comic effect.

That description fits "The Rules of Attraction" just as well as it does his best-known film, 2000's "American Psycho," and the first book-turned-movie, 1987's brat-pack classic "Less Than Zero."

Interestingly, the three films are all part of the same universe and are technically a series.

"Less Than Zero" follows Clay (Andrew McCarthy, "Pretty in Pink," 1986), who has returned home to L.A. from school in New Hampshire. That school is the fictional Camden College, also the setting of "The Rules of Attraction" (Clay is a minor character in the "Rules" novel but doesn't appear in the film).

The main character in "Rules," Sean Bateman (James Van Der Beek, "Dawson's Creek"), is the younger brother of Patrick Bateman (Christian Bale, "Batman Begins," 2005), the main character (you'd hate to call him the hero) of "American Psycho."

More films have followed that trio, such as 2004's "Glitterati" (made by "The Rules of Attraction" director Roger Avary) and 2008's "The Informers," though they are not part of the shared universe.

More recently, Ellis has cut out the middleman, writing screenplays directly instead of writing novels to be adapted by others for the screen.

Q: Now that Animal Planet has changed its logo, I feel less silly asking: Why was the M in the old logo sideways?

A: Because it was "playful" and because, "like any other wild animal or pet, it lies where it pleases — on its side."

In short: because of branding.

That description comes from PR firm Dunning Eley Jones, which was charged with a full rebrand for the network back in 2008.

The sideways-M logo replaced the network's original one, which featured an elephant and a globe, and which the channel reportedly found too limiting — it hoped to be known for more than just safari-type documentaries. And, indeed, its programming has expanded quite a bit in the years since.

Logo changes are always controversial — some fans will always (vocally) prefer the original version. That said, the sideways-M logo was greeted with particular disapproval. A blog post from photocopy company Kwik-Kopy, for example, was quite hard on the switch, including it on a list of logo redesigns gone wrong.

"The logo falls down literally with the M now placed on its side in a horizontal position, which doesn't make much sense," Kwik-Kopy said. "Could it not fit? Is it meant to represent a fallen tree? ... The logo appears to have lost its way."

Stadiums are back to full capacity whether they should be or not. Fans this weekend packed the stands; even tailgate parties are back! ... Some stadiums had special safety guidelines this weekend, some required proof of vaccination, some made you show a negative COVID test and some had no rules at all. In Jacksonville, if you have COVID, hot dogs are half price. That's how they do it.
